

Herald Sun reports that after vandalism plagued the set of I, Frankenstein early Sunday morning the production has added more security. After the slight delay the film is back on schedule. In the video below is a scene being filmed of an actor screaming out and then being hit by a shovel. The actor falls down onto a pillowy soft mat. The video was shot from far away so I suggest going full screen and squinting as best you can. Video Courtesy of CheapBBQ(CLICK IMAGES TO ENLARGE)..... In the first photo provided by MILK'N'COOKIES, I'm told by the source that a character is pinned down by the object you see being held by the crew member. That same character is also kicked by a second antagonist. Also, there was confirmation that a flying scene was filmed during the night as well. Images Courtesy of MILK'N'COOKIES Image Courtesy of Shades

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/nailbiter111/news/?a=57450>