

Below is the first look at John Barrowman's character on The CW's Arrow, which debuted this Wednesday. However, we still don't know the character's name or backstory. The Hollywood Reporter has confirmed that he will appear in episode 5 called "Damaged". In the second photograph, he is seen speaking to Oliver's mother, Moira. Is he connected to the big reveal at the end of Wednesday's episode? Don't forget that Barrowman's character code name at the moment is still "The Well-Dressed Man" who "is as mysterious as he is wealthy" as well as "an acquaintance of the Queen family and a prominent figure in Starling City". Arrow will replay tonight at 8pm on The CW. The premiere earned a 1.3 rating in it's 18-49 demographic, the biggest CW opener since The Vampire Diaries.
