

Kick-Ass and Wanted have already hit the big screen and Kick-Ass 2, Nemesis and Superior are all expected to follow pretty soon. Basically, Mark Millar is a very busy man right now. His latest project, Supercrooks has just been announced, and here are a few excerpts from an upcoming issue of 'CLiNT' featuring both comic book creator Mark Millar and the movie adaptations director Nacho Vigalondo talking about the upcoming project. To read more, be sure to pick up the magazine when it's released and head on over to Comic Book Resources by clicking on the link below. On The Concept Of Supercrooks: Supercrooks is such a simple idea – the guy that runs Marvel, Dan Buckley, said to me once “You’re the master of the obvious idea”, and it took me about an hour to figure out that it was an insult. Kick-Ass is one of those stories that is kind of

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/joshw24/news/?a=40019&t=First_Look_At_iSupercrooks_i_The_Next_Comic_AND_Movie_From_Mark_Millar