

This is the teaser poster for season 2 of Young Justice titled "Invasion". Invasion will have about 10 episodes and it has been stated that a lot more characters are going to be introduced, plus the current characters on the Young Justice team will grow up and mature. The producer Greg Weisman addressed the Young Justice fans by giving this statement about season 2: "We immediately began work on this new season last week, and are breaking approximately (but not quite) one episode per day. The creative team is fundamentally the same as for Season One. And though, of course, we will be introducing many new characters episodically in Season Two (just as we do episodically in Season One), I don't want to give the impression that this is some spin-off featuring, I dunno, the League or something, in the same Earth-16 setting. Invasion IS the second season of Young Justice
