

Dark Shadows has been considered one of the bigger disappointments this year. The budget, minus marketing, is said to have been around $150 million. Domestically, the film struggled, only pulling in $79 million total, and that's with an $29 million opening weekend. It hit theaters just after The Avengers and some believe that lead to its struggles as many films underperformed in the blockbuster's wake. Internationally, the numbers were fairly lackluster for a Tim Burton/Johnny Depp film, with only $236.5 million. Overall Dark Shadows is not a flop, but it's also not a success.
