

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/scifi_comic_book_movies/news/?a=26638

Zoe Graystone (Alessandra Toressani of Caprica) graced the original Caprica posters, with her Eden-esque apple in hand and a look that said “wow, we are all so screwed.” Most of us fell in love on the spot, even before we saw the rest of the show. Now, of course, Caprica is no more, but during its run, it gave us so many, many reasons to tumble for its fetching central figure. Why do we want to date Zoe Graystone? Let us count the ways.