

I'm going to assume these guys know what they are talking about, but this doesn't seem to be put together as a "wishlist" type thing, they seem to suggest that the following names may really be in the running! We're going to assume that they don't know anything for certain however, and these directors are just who they feel are most likely on Warner Bros. radar. Either way, it's a very interesting assemblage of names.. Ben Affleck, Duncan Jones, Nicolas Winding Refn, Guy Ritchie, David Yates, Neil Blomkamp, Mathew Vaughn, Rupert Wyatt, Zack Snyder and Darren Aronofsky At the end of the article, Forbes writer Mark Hughes stresses: "This is not my list of personal preferences, FYI — although I'd be fine/happy with anybody on this list — so remember this is a list of directors I think will probably be offered the job." Hmmm. If you click on the link below you can
