

The folks from On the Red Carpet recently caught up with the actor behind the popular 90s portrayal of 'Superman,' in the Lois & Clark: The New Adventures of Superman Tv series, Dean Cain, at the premiere of Immortals. And of course, Cain commented on Warner Bros.' Man Of Steel and it's new leading star, Henry Cavill. Check out what the actor has to say in the below video. "I think it'll be a nice rebirth of the franchise," Cain told OnTheRedCarpet.com host Chris Balish. "I think (Cavill will) probably do a fantastic job. I really have no idea though, ask me after I see it and I can tell you a lot more. The role is a big, giant role, there's so much to it. He's a classically trained Brit so I understand. I think he's going to be fine. The challenges for him are going to be miniscule." "I want to

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/MarvelFreshman/news/?a=49726&t=Former_Superman_Dean_Cain_Shares_Thoughts_On_iMan_Of_Steeli_And_Henry_Cavill