

As you may recall, Stephen Amell set foot in a WWE ring last year to go to war with Stardust for an enjoyable feud which culminated in the Arrow star emerging victorious. Since then, he and Cody Rhodes have teamed up for a number of charitable endeavours and Comic-Con appearances, so it should come as no surprise that the former WWE Superstar has landed a guest role in season five. Not much is known about the character he'll play in Arrow, but based on the description and images below, he's definitely going to be a pretty formidable threat. It also appears as if he'll play a big role in Wild Dog's story, and while it's unclear whether this will be a one off appearance or the start of something bigger, it should be a fun episode.
