

20th Century Fox screened the first 40 minutes of Logan for attendees at a showcase event in New York this evening, and based on the reactions below, fans have every reason to be excited. We don't have a detailed breakdown of what was shown, but by all accounts this movie establishes its R-rating right from the off, and is apparently pretty brutal. Several people also mention X-23 (guess that confirms it) as a standout, and from the sounds of things she'll be right in the thick of it with Wolverine when the fighting starts. Check out the Tweets, and we'll update as soon as a more detailed description is available: #Fox screens first 40 minutes of #Logan. Fans are finally getting the bloody, primal Wolverine movie they always wanted. — The Playlist (@ThePlaylist) December 8, 2016 Okay, saw 40 minutes. Will have an overall write up later, but this is a much more violent, cool version of Wolverine #Logan @joblocom — Paul Shirey (@arcticninja) December 8, 2016 If

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/x-men/the_wolverine/fox-screens-the-first-40-minutes-of-logan-at-a-showcase-event-a147382