

Earlier this week Frank Miller was asked how Batman would respond to the protests on Wall Street, and he said, "Batman would respect the first amendment." But Frank didn't want to just share the opinions of a fictional character. He wanted to chime in with his own opinions. He wrote a scathing letter about the protesters. Everybody's been too damn polite about this nonsense: The "Occupy" movement, whether displaying itself on Wall Street or in the streets of Oakland (which has, with unspeakable cowardice, embraced it) is anything but an exercise of our blessed First Amendment. "Occupy" is nothing but a pack of louts, thieves, and rapists, an unruly mob, fed by Woodstock-era nostalgia and putrid false righteousness. These clowns can do nothing but harm America. "Occupy" is nothing short of a clumsy, poorly-expressed attempt at anarchy, to the extent that the "movement" – HAH! Some "movement", except if the word "bowel" is
