

Behind many a vampire is the reincarnation of a lost love that he pursues in the present. This was true of the original Fright Night, and one has to wonder if it's part of the remake as well. One thing that is certain is that the character of Amy Peterson, played by Amanda Bearse back in 1985, is being portrayed by actress Imogen Poots, whose credits include Jane Eyre, 28 Weeks Later and Solitary Man. In the film, Amy is the girlfriend of Charlie Brewster (Anton Yelchin), who she dearly loves – even after he develops an unhealthy obsession with his neighbor, Jerry Dandrige (Colin Farrell), who he comes to believe is a vampire. Naturally it isn't long before she comes to realize that Charlie isn't crazy as she finds herself turned into a pawn by Dandrige as a means of torturing him. In the following exclusive interview, Imogen Poots

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/vampiresandslayers/news/?a=43777&t=FRIGHT_NIGHT_FRIDAY_EXCLUSIVE_An_Interview_with_Imogen_Poots_Amy_Peterson