

Charles Dutton who portrays Captain Cross on the "maybe" happening adaption of the Brian Michael Bendis comic book Powers stated the following to MTV when asked about the fate of the show. "“Last I heard, without bugging FX, is that they don’t know either ... but they have to come up with something fast, because on March 1, everybody’s deal changes,” Dutton, went on to say that, “If I was a betting man, I would be hedging the bet, because we’re getting close to that contract date.” As many of you know, the FX network decided that the initial pilot did not capture the type of visuals and tone the network envisioned for Powers and ordered work to begin on a complete reshooting of the pilot. While many expressed worry at the news, it was pointed out that many shows undergo a similar process, including FX's own hit motorcycle drama, Sons of

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/GraphicCity/news/?a=53396&t=FX_s_POWERS_TO_Have_Its_Fate_Decided_By_March_1st