

Gotham City Sirens is expected to revolve around Harley Quinn, Poison Ivy, and Catwoman, but as of right now, we have no idea who's playing the latter two characters. Megan Fox has been rumoured for Ivy, but we've heard nothing concrete on who's being eyed for Selina Kyle. However, a number of actresses have put their names forward with the latest being Game of Thrones star Lena Headey. With the DC Films Universe's Batman older than the rest of the world's heroes, it makes sense that Catwoman would also not be a twenty-something. That makes Headey perfect for the role, while she also looks perfect for the part and is without a doubt more than talented enough to deliver a memorable take on the character. She also has comic book movie experience with 300 and DREDD. Do you think Headey would be a good choice for Catwoman? Let us know in the comments section! Why the fuck am I not
<https://t.co/h18ntWykyr> — lena headey (@IAMLenaHeadey)

Read more: <https://www.comicbookmovie.com/batman/game-of-thrones-star-lena-headey-is-seemingly-interested-in-playing-a148847>