

Marvel.com: Nic Cage did the first Ghost Rider movie and has some familiarity with the character. What was it like joining up with him and taking what he took from the first movie and grafting it onto what you wanted to do? Mark Neveldine: We gave him an opportunity in this one to play it as a dual role. We didn't just want him to play Johnny Blaze, we wanted him to play the the demon, we wanted him to play the Ghost Rider. So he created this whole new physical language for that character. It was completely distinct from Johnny Blaze. That was a lot of fun. He's so passionate about it and so cerebral about it. Talk about controlled chaos, that's Nicolas. Nicolas thinks about everything that he does, and he's got a reason for it. An intellectual reason and a poetic reason for every choice that he makes. Once

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/debbiedowner/news/?a=43763&t=i>
Ghost Rider Spirit of Vengeancei Directors Say Nic Cage Is As Insane As We Are