

Last night's episode of The Walking Dead saw us say goodbye to both Abraham and Glenn in the most horrifying and brutal way possible. The former was the unlucky victim Negan chose after season six's huge cliffhanger, but Glenn's demise came as a total surprise after a right hook from Daryl led to the villain deciding to further punish the survivors by violently taking out the fan-favourite character. Now, AMC has released a new batch of images from the premiere (via TV Line) which take us behind the scenes with director Greg Nicotero and the cast. Joining those are some official stills spotlighting some key moments, though you'll be glad that there aren't any shots of poor old Glenn with his eyeball bulging out of his skull after being whacked by Negan's barbed wire covered baseball bat, Lucille.

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/tv/amc/the_walking_dead/go-behind-the-scenes-of-lasts-nights-gruesome-premiere-of-a146256