

Screen Junkies caught up with Vin Diesel at Brazil's CCXP over the weekend, and the actor dropped some intriguing hints in regards to what might be next for Rocket Raccoon and his character, Groot, following their next big screen outing in Guardians of The Galaxy Vol. 2. The Fast and Furious star seems pretty confident that it's only a matter of time before we see this dynamic duo get the spinoff treatment, and he also says he "knows" that Groot VS. The Incredible Hulk is in the cards. "I think if it's up to James Gunn, you are going to see a Groot and Rocket movie after Infinity War. I think that's highly possible. We shall see. I know that, somewhere in the universe, you are going to see Groot and Hulk battle. You can write it somewhere. You are going to see that poster: Hulk vs. Groot. Now keep in mind this may just be wishful thinking on Diesel's part, but then there

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/guardians_of_the_galaxy/gotg-vol-2-vin-diesel-teases-the-possibility-of-a-a147308