

Our Aussie friend Clint over at Moviehole.net has the scoop that GreenLantern2.com was recently re-registered by Warner Brothers last week. OK, so reserving a website for 10 bucks doesn't guarantee that a movie will be made, but it is evidence that WB hasn't given up on the green franchise--which is good news, right? Alongside GreenLantern2.com, they also re-purchased Gremlins3.com a domain they've owned since 2009, and TheHangover3.com. So, even if GL2 doesn't happen, at least we know there is also a chance of seeing Gizmo again, or being treated to yet another drunken bachelor party. Yippie!

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/green_lantern/news/?a=51715&t=Green_Lantern_2_Domain_Re-registered_by_WB