

The Hollywood Reporter (via IGN Movies) has released the following list as a part of their "THR Year In Review". Industry analysts have revealed that this year has seen a 4% drop in domestic revenue at the box office, and as the site points out, even if a studio makes back its production budget it still splits grosses with theater owners and marketing costs. Here are their top 15 movies which failed to make an impact after being released in 2011. Mars Needs Moms - Budget: $150M; Global Gross: $39M Sucker Punch - Budget: $82M; Global Gross: $89.8M Arthur - Budget: $40M; Global Gross: $45.7M Green Lantern - Budget: $200M; Global Gross: $219.9M Cowboys & Aliens - Budget: $163M; Global Gross: $178.8M Glee: The 3D Concert Movie - Budget: $9M; Global Gross: $18.7M Conan the Barbarian - Budget: $90M; Global Gross: $48.8M I Don't Know How She Does It - Budget: $24M;

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=51876&t=GREEN_LANTERN_And_COWBOYS_ALIENS_Among_2011s_Biggest_Box_Office_Flops