

With the premiere of Green Lantern rounding the corner, the fans excitement is certainly starting to get amped up, and here's something to make you guys even more excited until the movie is released. Over at the official website for Green Lantern they give you the option to check out some of the production notes for the film in which the cast and crew discuss everything from the CGI costume, the practical stunts, creating Oa, and the decision to use Geoff Johns' work as the basis for bringing the DC comics character to the big-screen. The Decision To Use Geoff's Work As A Starting Point. "Our film is the Hal Jordan origin story," De Line says. "In telling it, we wanted to be faithful and true to the spirit and the canon of Green Lantern, and Geoff's body of work provided an ideal place to start." Just starting at the beginning, however,

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/Dustin03Comics/news/?a=38809&t=IGreen_Lanterni_Cast_Crew_Talk_About_The_Film