

According to Deadline, we finally have some movement on Warner Bros. planned Green Lantern reboot, which will be titled Green Lantern Corps. The trade reports that both David Goyer and Justin Rhodes have been hired to pen the script for the movie, which is apparently still working off that rumored "Lethal Weapon in space" premise we heard about a while back. In addition, it looks like both John Stewart and Hal Jordan have been confirmed to feature as the ring-slinging duo. Goyer will also produce the project along with DC heads Geoff Johns and Jon Berg. Green Lantern Corps doesn't currently have a release date, but we'll keep you updated on that. Tell us, what do you think of this news? Sound off below.

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/green_lantern/green-lantern-corps-sets-david-goyer-justin-rhodes-as-writers-hal-a148136