

Say what you will about previous instalments of the franchise, but Transformers: The Last Knight is looking pretty damn cool. That's evident from the full Super Bowl TV spot for the movie which you can see below, and it features a lot of great shots, including the apparent demise of Dinobot Grimlock! Set to be released on June 23rd this year, Transformers: The Last Knight will feature the return of Mark Wahlberg as Cade Yeager as well as new roles for Isabela Moner and Jerrod Carmichael. With Bay back in the director's chair, the screenplay for the movie was written by Iron Man's Art Marcum and Matt Holloway along with Ken Nolan (Black Hawk Down). Plot details are currently being kept under wraps, but this new TV spot does at least offer some insight into what we should expect from the movie! What do you think of this latest look at Transformers: The Last Knight? Sound off down below. The Last Knight shatters the core myths of the Transformers franchise, and

Read more: <https://www.comicbookmovie.com/transformers/grimlock-is-in-trouble-in-the-action-packed-full-length-super-bowl-a148707>