

Comic Book movie sits down with Guy Pearce for a roundtable Q&A about his new Sci-Fi action movie "Lockout". Pearce also some answers some questions about Prometheus and working with Christopher Nolan! Audio version (turn up the volume we had some problems boosting it up) Transcript: Q: There was a very multicultural cast and crew... Guy Pierce: It was fascinating! Absolutely fascinating. Surprisingly though – I don't know why I should be surprised, but all the Serbs spoke very good English so they were most accommodating. Trying to understand some of the translations...I would see the Irish director say something to the French first and then the French first would say it to the Serbian lighting team and I would think 'no, that's not what the Irish director said.' Or he'd say it to the French stunt team and I'd say 'no, I recon that's gone a bit wrong.' I'd have to go over to

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/DarkKnightNews/news/?a=57627>