

Hot on the heels of the (low-quality) reveal of the teaser trailer for the superhero ensemble, the folks from Dis Fan Review are suggesting that 'Pepper Potts' actress Gwyneth Paltrow, from both Iron Man films, will surely be reprising the role in next year's The Avengers. While the actress hinted at the possibility months ago, the site says: According to our sources the famous Hollywood leading lady made an extremely quiet entrance into New Mexico on Monday or Tuesday and was said to have definitely departed by Thursday, making an equally quiet exit. A source close to the production says that somewhere in that time frame Mrs. [Paltrow] spent two entire days shooting her appearance in the film. Our sources also indicate that her part in the film is more than just a glorified cameo. However, our sources were unwilling to reveal much more than that. Marvel's The Avengers picks up when an

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/MarvelFreshman/news/?a=42034&:t=Gwyneth_Paltrow_Reprising_Pepper_Potts_In_The_Avengers_After_All_Not_Just_A_Cameo