

Earlier today, we got a look at some alternate designs for Jared Leto's Joker, and now costume graphic illustrator Tina Charad has shared some of her work revolving around Harley Quinn. There's a lot of great stuff here, but many of the makeup, costume, and tattoo designs are very unusual, and the portrait of The Joker covering her entire torso (breasts included) are pretty bizarre to say the least! As you can see, she even had "Puddin'" written across her butt at one point, and while that may have been ok in an R-Rated version of Suicide Squad, it's something many fans probably wouldn't have wanted to see. The jacket designs are fun though, and it definitely would have been interesting to see some of these ideas make it into the movie. Still, Margot Robbie's version did look pretty perfect. What do you guys think of these alternate designs? Share your thoughts in the comments section.

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/suicide\_squad/harley-quinn-looks-seriously-messed-up-in-these-alternate-costume-a147283