

Harry Lennix, best known for his roles in 24 and the final two Matrix movies, will be playing the still mysterious 'General Swanwick' in next June's Man of Steel. Below, he looks back at his time working on Zack Snyder's adaptation and confirms exactly what role the character plays in the military. As for how he feels about superhero movies, it should come as a relief to learn that he's a much bigger fan than the likes of Paul Bettany and Hugo Weaving! Check out his comments below, and be sure to sound off with your thoughts in the usual place. "I did not film [in Chicago] unfortunately. I shot in Vancouver and central California, which was great. I had a great time on it. But I wasn't part of the Chicago end of it. I can tell you that General Swanwick is a U.S. army general and he's the head of

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=68864>