

Okay, let me preface this by saying that this is not "official" news, hence the filing under the "Scoops" category. It is, however, an example of deductive reasoning. (If you don't know what that is, get out your dictionary.) Here's what I came up with: 1. Last week, David Slade used his personal twitter account to promise that we can expect some "official news" this week about his new Daredevil movie. 2. Amidst rants about 3-D — "No I am not a fan of 3d and I need to write an essay as to why" — and his idea for a new body part-related acronym for Twilight fans — "BREASTS" for "Better Respect Edward and Swan Twilight Saga." — Slade tweets a solitary photo of an actor, Xavier Samuel, the young Australian that Slade cast as Riley in The Twilight Saga: Eclipse. 3. Xavier Samuel playing Matt Murdock, aka Daredevil, in

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/BrentSprecher/news/?a=38679&t=Has_David_Slade_Already_Found_His_New_Daredevil