

On Wielding The Various Weapons In The Movie: "I started off with a pistol and the director could clearly tell how much I loved working with it and said 'Oh just give her a machine gun' and I was like 'yes'! So I got to play with that for a few months. There's lots of action in it and I'd love to do more of it." On The Character Of Peggy Carter: "I think she's quite stubborn, a slightly frustrated woman who struggles with being a woman in that time. But more importantly she's a modern woman and she sees something in Captain America that she relates to, and becomes kindred spirits. He treats her very differently to how she's been treated by lots of men, in this kind of dominated world she lives in. So she's very much a fighter." On What It Was Like To Work Alongside Chris Evans: "Chris was a gentleman.

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/joshw24/news/?a=37510&t=Hayley Atwell Talks About Her Role As Peggy Carter In iCaptain America