

Hayley Atwell took time out of her scheduel to sit down with the Press Association where she said it would be "Wonderful" to come back and play Peggy Carter a upcoming Captain America sequel. She also touched on not being in Cap's new adventure The Avengers, as well as what Joe Johnston did that made Peggy such a great character. On returning on the Captain America sequel as Peggy Carter. "I haven't heard anything. There have been talks... there's a possibility. I know they're either writing it now or they have written it by now, so I've moved on in another direction, but of course if they were to bring me back or ask if I was interested I'd definitely love to go back and revisit that role and develop her. That would be wonderful." On Not Being In The Avengers: "There are fans of the comic and of Peggy and Steve's relationship that would

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JakeLester/news/?a=50303&t=Hayley_Atwell_Would_Love_To_Be_In_The_iCaptain_Americai_Sequel