

Source: CBR Speaking to CBR, writer Chris Yost shared the following details about Season 2 of Avengers: Earth's Mightiest Heroes which will air sometime in "early 2012". You ended the season with a pretty big cliffhanger. What does that mean for the premiere episode of Season Two? Yost: Right, in the finale we wrapped up the Asgardian War and the Loki story. Then we had a little surprise at the end there when Captain America is attacked and replaced by a Skrull agent. I believe the last line of dialogue in Season One is, "The Infiltration has begun." Fans of the comics know that the word infiltration leads to much bigger things. When Season Two starts with a little episode called "The Private War of Doctor Doom," which we screened at Comic-Con, the Captain America on the team is not the person his teammates think he is. So in Season Two, which our producer Josh

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/GraphicCity/news/?a=49932&t=Head_Writer_emChris_Yostem_Teases_Season_Two_Of_emAvengers_Earths_Mightiest_Heroesem