

Yesterday marked the first day of production for Marvel's Thor: The Dark World, on-location in Bourne Wood, Farnham, Surrey, England. And photos revealed a battle sequence being filmed with creature-like warriors and the Lady Sif, played Jaimie Alexander, among other Asgardian warriors. And now today, sans any stars of the Alan Taylor-directed sequel, early photos via Wayne Howes have emerged featuring helmeted and horned extras preparing for today's battle shoot, offering closeups on the many odd-looking creatures! Exploring Thor's relationship with the Asgardian all-father Odin, as well earthbound companion Jane Foster, "Thor: The Dark World" follows the God of Thunder to The Nine Realms beyond Asgard and earth. And as his evil half-brother, Loki, returns for Asgardian justice, a new threat rises. Also rejoining Thor are his fellow Asgardians, Lady Sif, gatekeeper Heimdall and Warriors Three, as they encounter mythical Norse
