

LA HeroComplex recently scored an in-depth interview with the new "Man Of Steel" Henry Cavill. To check out the entire interview, simply head over to HeroComplex's website by Clicking Here! One thing is for sure this guy is really working hard on embodying a true and faithful Superman! "Oh, yes, I've done my research. I stocked up on source material and buried my head in it for a while I didn't see a lot of comic books growing up. At boarding school there wasn't much time for much of anything except education. Up until I was 13 [before I arrived at Stowe School] it wasn't so bad, but at boarding school you are there and there's a small village nearby but you are not getting to stop by a shop on the way home to buy a book. I mean, you might get a chance to watch a little TV at some stage

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/CoastToCoastStation/news/?a=50117&t=Henry_Cavill_Shares_His_Knowledge_On_Mark_Millars_iRed_Son