

Talking to Collider about his new shows, Homeland and Awake, executive producer Howard Gordon once again offered up a brief update on the status of the long talked about movie adaptation of 24. The series wrapped up in a way specifically designed to be continued on the big screen, although there's been little to no movement since it ended last year. There have however been plenty of rumors, and it thankfully seems that the project is still alive...barely. "If the movie happens, I'll certainly be a part of it. Kiefer [Sutherland] also has his own show now (Touch on Fox) and there are a lot of things that would have to fall into place. But, those things are definitely moving forward. Imagine and Fox are talking, and there is a script that we're re-approaching right now." As the month go by, I find it harder and harder to believe that this movie will

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/joshw24/news/?a=47457&t=Howard_Gordon_Still_Confident_That_A_i24i_Movie_WILL_Eventually_Happen