

Lee stated in a conference call this morning that he would "like more Marvel projects to come to ABC". "Hulk is in development, it wasn't going to be ready this season but we hope it's going to be ready for next season." Fan favorite Guillermo del Toro (Hell Boy, Pan's Labyrinth) is developing the project the television network which also has Disney for a parent company. "We're immensely proud to be [in] company with The Avengers," he said. "We're going to continue to develop aggressively. We're very happy to make shows not just for our own network but for other networks too. Where the shows are more appropriate to our brand they'll go with us. Where they're more appropriate to brands like Fox [Click here for disappointing news about The Punisher] or NBC, CBS, happy to do that too. We would like to see some Marvel projects move to television." When pressed for details, Lee remained
