

Although filming is wrapping up on The Avengers' Cleveland set doubling for East 42nd Street of New York City, another area in the Ohio city, Public Square, has been transformed for scenes that'll occur in Stuttgart, Germany. And thanks to Marvel Movies, via Twitter user D Sweeney, a few images and details regarding tonight's shoot on the location have been revealed. Got the inside scoop they will simulate a plane crashing into the Terminal Tower later tonight for the Avengers movie. And the scene will also depict be a "black tie gala" part. A shop's facade at Ontario and Euclid was modified to be a German store front. A fake bus station rested across of the marquee of a theater hanging off of City Center -- both with signs spelled in Deutsch. Even a German flag waved next to an RTA stop. Also, check out an extremely detailed description of the

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/MarvelFreshman/news/?a=44960&t=Images_And_Details_For_The_Avengersi_Shoot_In_Cleveland_Doubling_For_Germany