

Animator Robb Pratt wowed us with his first animated Superman short, and now he is back with his sophomore effort. Actor John Newton, who played the Boy of Steel in the live-action television series The Adventures of Superboy once again lends his voice for Superman. John also pulls double duty as Bizarro, and his wife is back as the voice of Lois Lane. Make sure to stick around after the credits to see some great behind-the-scenes footage of the making of the animated short. Below is the original that started it all.
