

The Defenders is still shooting in New York City, and the latest photos from the set give us a first look at Danny Rand and Colleen Wing in the spinoff. Those two will obviously be introduced in Iron Fist next year, but sadly, the former still isn't wearing his costume. That doesn't mean he won't of course, but with shorter hair, he at least looks a little different to what we've seen of him in his own solo series. Other photos have also surfaced from the same day featuring Mike Colter's Luke Cage. While it's possible those are from an entirely different scene, it almost looks as if he's following Danny and Colleen. Could it be that he's trying to figure out whether Iron Fist can be trusted as part of The Defenders? Who knows, but I would have thought it will be Daredevil who brings the team together! Time will tell, but with so many set photos doing the rounds, here's hoping

Read more: <https://www.comicbookmovie.com/tv/marvel/defenders/iron-fist-is-joined-by-colleen-wing-in-latest-photos-from-the-a147277>