

As Marvel prepares for their anticipated presence at San Diego Comic-Con, where "really awesome" footage will be shown, concurrently filming for Iron Man 3 is still underway in North Carolina. And now Comic Book have tracked down a filming schedule, while a Duplin County news station WNCT has set prep footage. Both hinting at new settings and what scenes will involve, check out the transcription and video below! "Our filming in Rose Hill involves controlled pyrotechnic devices and specials effects which will be cleared by the Rose Hill Fire and Police Departments in advance. They include small explosions, controlled fires, gunfire, atmospheric smoke as well as stunt activity. Although we are filming overnight, the special effects last for several minutes and you will not hear gunfire continuously throughout the evening. We have also requested permission to apply fake snow to our filming area which will be removed upon completion of

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/MarvelFreshman/news/?a=63445>