

Despite the lack of reports and photos over the past few weeks, filming for Iron Man 3 is still well underway in vast areas in North Carolina. Following the “parachuting” stunt scenes filmed in Oak Island, StarNewsOnline reports that filming will soon occur at the Port of Wilmington. According to a NC State Ports Authority spokeswoman, the shoot will begin at 1 Shipyard Blvd. on August 17 and expected to wrap on September 2. “The shoots, which will feature special effects and stunt work, will mostly take place overnight – from 6 p.m. to 7 a.m. – at the south end of the port near the facility's container cranes, Shannon Moody said. On Aug. 24-26, a helicopter will film aerial scenes, according to a letter distributed by the production to Sunset Park residents. The aircraft's pilot will “avoid” flying over nearby homes, the letter said. Some scenes also will
