

A fresh report from the set of Iron Man 3 from USA Today takes us behind the scenes of the third outing for Tony Stark and what will surely be his toughest test yet. Sir Ben Kingsley's portrayal of The Mandarin has reportedly roused even the most jaded Marvel Studios film crew; Kingsley has such a dangerous aura while filming scenes as The Mandarin that crew members are literally scared to speak. "On his last take of his first full day as the Mandarin, when they yelled 'Cut!' the entire crew burst into applause, spearheaded by Mr. Downey himself," Feige said. "It was pretty amazing to see that." Out of the six Marvel Studios films that have come before Feige says that he can count on one hand how many times something like that has happened. "That's what you get when you hire Sir Ben Kingsley. He's so excited

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/GraphicCity/news/?a=69291>