

There is really no evidence to support this, but someone has pointed out over at Secret Underground Headquarters Via /Film that some of the features that are on Catwoman's mask are very similar to those found on Batman's. As shown below you can notice the tears on the mask as well as the hollow ears. Now also keep in mind there is also a theory that the goggles she wears flip up into the ears so that could just be them as well, so look at this and take this with a grain of salt. What do you guys think any validity to this? If you think it's true how do you suppose Catwoman got a hold of one of Batman's masks? As usual sound off in the comment boxes below. Catch The Dark Knight Rises in theaters on July 20, 2011!

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JakeLester/news/?a=47113&t=Is_Catwomans_Mask_Made_Out_Of_Batmans_In_The_Dark_Knight_Rises