

If you recall, last December, we reported on a rumor that stated that WB Games was working on a new Batman game that would star Damian Wayne. Moments ago, a new teaser surfaced on the IGN France account that a major WB Games announcement was set to be unveiled on March 8. It only took moments for gamers to comment on how similar the color, text and font was to a similar teaser for Arkham Origins - WB Games' prequel to Rocksteady's Arkham games. If WB Games' Montreal Studio is indeed working on a Damian Wayne Batman game, it clicks that IGN France would get wind of the news first. As always, we'll let you know more details the second we have an official confirmation, debunk or rumor from a credible source. In the meantime, check out CBM's sister video game site, GameFragger.com. Ohhh dites, c'est quoi à votre avis ? pic.twitter.com/UKlufOMSe1 — IGN France (@IGNFRA) January 31, 2017 Previous teaser for Batman: Arkham Origins

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/video_games/is-there-a-new-batman-arkham-video-game-on-the-way-a148605