

It was last year that Henry Cavill first teased the possibility of the Man of Steel donning his comic book counterpart's black costume in Justice League, but has an image of him in that suit now surfaced? We all know how easily faked images like these are, so it's best not to take what you see below too seriously for the time being. However, it's certainly possible that it could have leaked from somewhere, but you'd probably expect the hero's hair to be longer if this is legit. Still, given Zack Snyder's love of the comic books, Superman wearing this costume for at least some of Justice League does make sense. Fans have theorised that the costume not being exposed to sunlight could have changed its colour, but the iconic hero was buried as Clark Kent, not Kal-El, so that may very well take some explaining here. Do you guys think this Justice League image is real? Let us know your thoughts in the

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/justice_league/is-this-a-possible-leaked-first-look-at-supermans-black-suit-in-a148345