

The first trailer for Spider-Man: Homecoming is expected to be shown off to Brazilian fans on Friday, but will Marvel Studios and Sony Pictures release it online before then? They may not have any other choice, especially as some low-res screengrabs appear to have now leaked from the upcoming teaser. The photos below looks pretty real, but honestly, you never know with these things. However, if screengrabs like this have already surfaced, an actual bootleg can't be far behind. They don't reveal a huge amount anyway, but we do get to see Peter Parker in high school, someone watching Spidey in action on a tablet, and a shot of the wall-crawler in action (though it's hard to tell what's going on). So, real or fake? As always, be sure to let us know your thoughts and theories in the usual place. Starring Tom Holland, Michael Keaton, Zendaya, Donald Glover, Jacob Batalon, Laura Harrier, Tony Revolori, Tyne Daly, Bokeem Woodbine, Marisa Tomei, Robert Downey Jr.,

Read more: <https://www.comicbookmovie.com/spider-man/it-appears-images-from-the-spider-man-homecoming-teaser-trailer-have-a147193>