

Marvel has dominated TV in quality unanimously since the release of Daredevil season 1 till now with Luke Cage all being critical hits. Even Agents of SHIELD has pulled a complete 180 and is generally thought of as a good show. But this is quality we're talking about. What about success when compared to other TV shows? How do you rate TV success? Well lets just say the answer is...Marvel has completely wrecked TV. I mean they own TV just as unanimously as they own the movies. But Netflix doesn't release ratings info, right? So how do we know. To understand we have to start at the beginning. Digital distribution services like Netflix and Hulu don't release ratings info. But the pros of...TV...related stuff, I guess have been predicting for a while now that digital distribution services would be ahead of basic cable and satellite services in the next few years or so. If you didn't know that's actually pretty common knowledge.
