

Recently, it was confirmed that Paramount Pictures will be releasing their long in-development reboot of the Jack Ryan franchise in late 2013. Now, with filming expected to begin in a matter of weeks, Paramount have officially announced a December 25th, 2013 release date for the movie, which has Chris Pine, Keira Knightley and Kevin Costner set to star. Kenneth Branagh (who's also playing the film's villain) will helm the reboot, which is said to be a prequel to the Tom Clancy novels. The story will revolve around Branagh's Russian antagonist plotting to destroy the US economy. The movie is expected to be the first of a trilogy. Merry Xmas action fans!
