

Fans were shocked yesterday to learn that Jaimie Alexander (@JaimieAlexander) narrowly escaped being paralysed after an accident on the set of Marvel Studios' Thor: The Dark World. Online speculation has led many to come to the conclusion that the beautiful actress may have fallen from a horse, but regardless, she is thankfully in good spirits AND health as can be seen from the Tweets below. It is thought that Sif will have a much larger role in the Alan Taylor helmed sequel and Jaimie will next be seen in January's The Last Stand opposite Arnold Schwarzenegger. Get well soon! Today I sustained a pretty horrible injury. I'm lucky I'm not paralyzed. Thank you (with all of my heart) to those who've looked after me.— Jaimie Alexander (@JaimieAlexander) September 24, 2012 Already in recovery mode and my spirits are high. I'll be back kicking ass as Lady Sif in no time! It can only

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=67828>