

Fans probably heard more about Jared Leto's antics as The Joker on the set of Suicide Squad than they saw of the actor in the final film. Stories of Leto's method acting approach were plentiful, the biggest one being the "gifts" that he gave to his co-stars, reported to be anything from bullets to condoms to dead animals. As it turns out, Skrillex was also the recipient of such a gift when he filmed the video for "Purple Lamborghini" (from the film's soundtrack) with Leto and Rick Ross. In an interview with Complex, Skrillex said that Leto gave him the "biggest dildo" he had ever seen and a "bunch of weird s**t in a box." A nonplussed Skrillex thanked the actor for the gift, nonetheless. According to Skrillex, the music video was originally supposed to feature just him, intercut with footage from the film, but he wanted something different, and personally called Leto to ask him to appear as The Joker. "[They] wanted to do

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/suicide\_squad/jared-letto-gave-skrillex-a-special-gift-on-the-set-of-suicide-a145755