

A lot of things can go wrong in space, but finding yourself trapped in a giant water bubble, slowly drowning, when your spaceship loses all gravitational function is probably one of the worst things that you can imagine, but that's exactly where Jennifer Lawrence's character Aurora finds herself in this first clip from Morten Tyldum's Passengers. The nearly one-minute long clip does a pretty good job showcasing some of the stunning special effects the movie will feature while also establishing the dire tone. Check out the clip below: Jennifer Lawrence battles gravity in this tense @PassengersMovie exclusive clip: <https://t.co/z2osfqD67D>