

Well, I guess we can forget Clint Barton heading back to his family home following the events of Captain America: Civil War! During a recent interview with Collider, the Arrival star confirmed that he'll be back as Hawkeye for Avengers: Infinity War, but the downside is the fact that the movie's shooting schedule (it's filming back to back with Avengers 4) could stop him starring in Mission: Impossible 6. "I'm not sure what's happening!" Renner told the site of the Christopher McQuarrie helmed sixth instalment. "I know that they're really wanting to get it going, and I haven't spoken to Tom about ultimately where it's at. I know that there might be some conflict with schedules, so I'm not sure what's going to happen. 'Avengers' is going to eat up a lot of next year - I'd gladly - but I certainly hope that won't get in the way of Tom and I and the gang getting back together, because I'd love to." The

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/avengers/avengers_infinity_war/jeremy-renner-confirms-hawkeye-will-return-for-a146750